Terry Martin, Executive Director of Illinois Channel, wrote in the September 2007 Municipal Review, "A strategic partnership between the Illinois channel and municipal governments across the state allows many citizens to see Illinois state government on television for the first time. ...Often referred to as the "C-SPAN for Illinois," the Illinois Channel connects millions of Illinois citizens across the state to unedited coverage of legislative committee hearings, Capitol press conferences, Supreme Court cases, and unedited interviews with state government leaders...We want to connect Illinoisans to their government, their history, and the events and issues that may well determine their future."
